

IMAGINE...

...being constantly threatened with violence.

...getting a tattoo of your abuser's name.

...having to constantly lie about your age.

...having to change your name and having no say in it.

...having to earn a set amount of money for sex before you can come inside for the night.

...being beaten when someone else breaks the rules.

...having to call an abusive man Daddy who isn't your daddy.

...not being allowed contact with the outside world.

...not being able to make eye contact with men other than your abuser.

...living with a group you call family you could never depend on for support.

...having to completely change your appearance.

...having threats made against your family.

...having to give away all of your money.

...being raped repeatedly.

...constantly moving where someone else wants to go.

...having all of your ID taken away from you.

...getting a sexually transmitted disease.

...having to trade sex with a cop to avoid getting arrested.

...having sex with strangers every night.
